Message from Vice Chancellor

Established in 1941 as Delhi Polytechnic, Delhi Technological University (DTU) has a rich history that spans over eight decades. Initially created to meet India's increasing demand for skilled technical workers, DTU was upgraded and renamed by the Government of NCT of Delhi in 2009, formerly known as Delhi College of Engineering.

DTU has recently expanded its offerings by adding the Department of Design in 2018-19. This new Design Programme was developed by experts from top institutes and universities to meet market and social needs. It focuses on developing skills to transform abstract ideas into practical, usable products and services using "Design Thinking." The curriculum emphasises metamorphism, empathy, rationalism, empiricism, and systems thinking to foster business competitiveness.

Design is an interdisciplinary field that links science, technology, aesthetics, and humanistic values, aiming for sustainable growth and competitiveness. The Department of Design provides facilities for design and other related programs, including Bachelor's, Master's, and Doctoral degrees.

The Department of Design has quickly become a thriving academic and design centre, with its first batch of students being placed in leading organisations. With its faculty, students, and Head of Department, Prof. Ranganath M. Singari, the department is poised for even greater success in the years to come. Aspiring designers joining the B. Des and M. Des Programs can look forward to an enhanced learning experience. Congratulations to the department for their achievements, and best wishes for their continued success.

Message from Honorary Professor

The world we have created is changing at an unprecedented rate, with technological advancements doubling every 10 years, making 100 years in the 21st century equivalent to 20,000 years of technological progress. In light of this, Delhi Technological University has recognised the need for design education to humanise technology and empower humanity through thoughtful technological development. As human desires for global wellness continue to expand, it will be the responsibility of designers to create an inclusive, respectful, and empowering world for both humans and the planet.

DTU's design program is rapidly expanding into a multi-disciplinary design school with a diverse range of specialisations including Product Design, UX-UI, Visual Communication, Fashion Design, Augmented and Virtual Reality, among others. Students will have the opportunity to hone their skills in their areas of interest, with a team of full-time and visiting faculty dedicated to supporting their growth. The department's building has been specifically designed to provide a creative and stimulating environment that fosters design education.

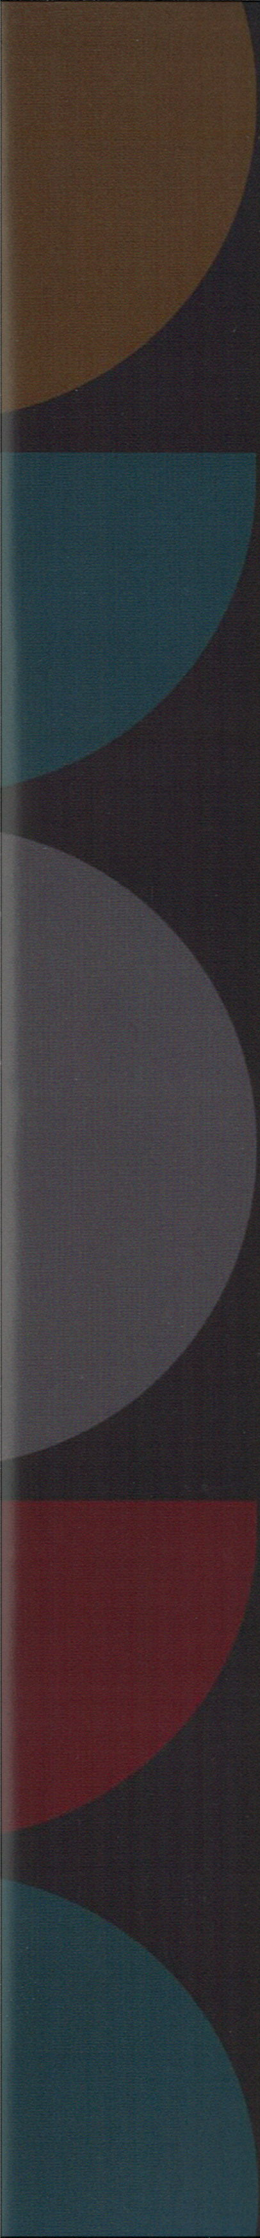

As we embark on the sixth year of admissions, we welcome individuals who are passionate about creating a better tomorrow to join our design program at the Department of Design, DTU. Convert your natural aptitude into a fulfilling career that will have a meaningful impact on the world.
